Begin Census Today

The county's 42 enumerators completed their briefing Friday and today began the task of visiting every home, farm and business place in the county to enumerate its residents and compile other information for the federal census.

When the enumerators have completed their work, and their information has been forwarded to census headquarters, the science of electronics will be applied to the science of statistics for the tabulation of the billions of items of information collected. But for the invention and development of high speed statistical machines the compilation of the results would be almost impossible.

The basis of the machine tabulation system employed by the United States Bureau of the Census is called the "punch card." Holes are punched into these cards in various columnar arrangements and combinations to represent the items taken from individual census reports. These cards, (Please Turn to Page 6)

COUNTY MUSIC FESTIVAL DRAWS 1,100 ON FRIDAY

Approximately 1,100 persons, including more than 700 spectators and approximately 350 participants, filled the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium at Gettysburg college Friday evening for the annual Adams County Music Festival.

The most effective members were the "Festive Finale" by Joseph Maddy in which more than 200 singers jammed the stage and sang accompanied by the full orchestra, and the "Star Spangled Banner," by chorus and band, during which James Weaver, Shippensburg State Teachers' college director of music, brought the entire audience into the singing.

Eight students from Biglerville high school presented a square dance on the stage during the singing of "Country Style" by the senior mixed chorus and the drum majorettes from the various high schools presented a baton drill during the presentation of one of the band numbers.

Many Schools Take Part

The 138-piece band proved excellent in all of its numbers with some slight reservations on "Tea for Two." The high school student musicians seemed to enjoy most the presentation of "Be-Bop" by Harold L. Walters and "Colonel Bogey" by Kenneth J. Alford. Use of soloists on drum, trombone, clarinet and trumpet was most effective in the swing numbers.

The choral work was equally as excellent in all numbers and the audience was generous with applause throughout the program.

Students from Biglerville, East Berlin, Littlestown, New Oxford, York Springs, Conowingo township, Fairfield joint school system and Gettysburg took part in the music festival.

MARCH WAS WET AND COLD, RECORDS SHOW

March weather records were closed Friday on a 31-day period that received slightly more than normal rainfall and the largest snow of the "winter."

March had more days when the temperature dropped to or below freezing than did February and its average was only about four degrees above that for February. It was the first month so far this year with average temperatures below normal.

The warmest day last month was Tuesday of this week when a high of 72 degrees was reached. In the same month one of the lowest readings of the winter was taken at 10 above zero on March 3. Last month's average daily high temperature was 45.8 degrees and the average daily low was 27.2 degrees. The month's average temperature was 36.5 which is four degrees below normal March figures.

Variety of Weather

Last month's precipitation totaled 4.31 inches and occurred on 12 weather days. The heaviest fall in any 24-hour period was the night of March 22 and 23 when two inches of wet, heavy snow was mixed with 1.90 inches of moisture, most of which fell here in the form of rain. The March rainfall total of 4.31 inches is 0.78 inches above normal.

On 22 days last month the mercury dropped to the freezing point. February had only 21 days of freezing weather.

March's excess of rainfall continued a pace set by February. That month's rain was 1.06 inches above the normal level.

Last month's weather was marked by many extremes. There were high winds, comparatively severe cold weather, and the first above-70 reading for the season, thunder-showers, sleet, snow, frost and fog.

$750,000 Fire Sweeps Three Buildings On Hanover Center Square; Local Firemen There

A spectacular fire in the center square of Hanover early today caused damage estimated as high as $750,000.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, swept through two three-story brick business and apartment buildings and damaged a third adjoining building.

Miles R. Fasnacht, manager of J. C. Penny retail store, which occupied part of one of the buildings gutted, estimated the damage at $500,000 to $750,000, including replacement value of the buildings destroyed. Both were owned by the E. Baer Gitt estate of Hanover.

Thirty-five persons, comprising 15 families, fled in their night clothes from apartments on the second and third floors of the buildings. The Red Cross and other community services arranged immediately to provide them with temporary shelter and clothing.

One man was injured and one fireman was overcome during the fire.

Fred Bethas dashed into one of the buildings to rescue an ill man. Fred Stambaugh, former Hanover health officer, from his apartment, but firemen previously had removed him. Bethas jumped from a window and broke a leg.

Treat New Oxford Man

James Noel, New Oxford fireman, was treated for smoke fumes.

The buildings burned were Gitt building, a three-story brick structure housing the J. C. Penny retail store, and the adjoining three-story brick building occupied by the Shears drug store. Apartments were located on the second and third floors of both buildings.

The fire spread also to the Farmers State bank building, damaging one of the top apartments slightly. That building also is a three-story brick building.

Cause Unknown

Firemen believed the fire started from an undetermined origin in one of the rear apartments above the Shears drugstore. It spread to the Gitt building, sweeping through that structure, and fanned out to the bank building when the blaze was brought under control.

The entire Hanover fire department was called out to fight the three-alarm fire. Fire companies were summoned from York, 20 miles away, and from Gettysburg.

Other fire companies aiding in battling the blaze included those from nearby towns of Abbottstown, Grangeville, Parkville, McSherrystown, New Oxford, Pennville and Littlestown.

Local Call at 4 a. m.

The call for aid which took two pumps, the service truck and the aerial ladder truck of the Gettysburg fire department to Hanover was received just before 4 a. m.

Until the arrival of the York fire department's new ladder truck after 5 o'clock, the Gettysburg "water tower" was the only fire apparatus at the scene able to pour water on top of the fire.

The ladder was raised and a line hooked up from one of the Hanover pumps, doing yeoman service in controlling the spread of the flames on the Baltimore street side of the building. The York truck was located on the other side of the Penny store after its arrival.

The large truck of the Alpha Fire company of Littlestown supplied two streams of water from a hydrant a block from the fire on Frederick street. A second Littlestown truck responded, but later was sent home.

The Gettysburg ladder truck was moved to the Frederick street side of the square after the York ladder truck had left for York and continued to do effective work in controlling the remaining flames.

Radio Useful

Gettysburg's new radio kept the fire trucks in constant communication with headquarters here, where Murray Miller remained on duty throughout the morning as central station operator.

Fire apparatus, including the Gettysburg trucks, were serviced with gas and oil by the Arenz Oil company of Hanover.

Both the Hanover ambulance and an ambulance from York were at the fire.

Heavy Stock Damage

The Gitt building is located at Baltimore street and center square. The other two buildings are on Baltimore street. A three-story "L" building, partly frame and brick, extending from the Gitt building, was also gutted. Much Penny store stock was stored in the "L."

Miles R. Fasnacht, manager of the Penny store, said he would be unable to estimate the damage until inventory of the stock was made. The fire was confined to the second and third floors of the Gitt building and did not reach the first floor, where the Penny store is located. The store and stock, however, were badly damaged by smoke and water.

$1,500 DAMAGE IN Y.S. CRASH

State police from Gettysburg said damage totaled $1,500 when a car operated by Edward Koch, Cannonsburg, Pa., and a truck driven by Herbert L. Ergott, Jersey Shore, Pa., collided at 12:15 p. m. Friday at the York Springs intersection.

Koch, his wife and Alice Crawford, another occupant of their car, were injured in the crash and were brought to the Warner hospital here in the York Springs ambulance. Mrs. Koch was thrown out of the car when it was spun around after being hit by the truck.

The state police report on the accident showed that Koch was driving east on the Hanover-Carlisle highway and Ergott was headed north on the Harrisburg highway. Koch failed to stop before entering the intersection, police said, and the right rear of his auto was struck by the truck.

Police are continuing their investigation. Damage to the car was placed at $1,000 and that to the truck at $500.

Extra features for this year's show have been announced.

Extra Displays Planned

Several mammoth size photographs have been offered by the Dupont company and will be included in the show. The Eastman Kodak company is sending two sets of color pictures for the exhibit.

The annual catalog, issued in connection with the show and including reproductions of the best photos exhibited, will be larger for the forthcoming fifth anniversary edition and may include winners of previous shows.

The same rules govern this year's show as in previous events. The exhibit is open to "anyone who lives, works or is a student in Adams county or Emmitsburg." Pictures submitted must have been taken by the contributor. Prints made in any photographic medium will be considered. Black and white and other monochrome prints may not be smaller than 5x7 inches nor larger than 16x20 inches. Color prints will be accepted in any size and will be judged separately. Any competitor may enter any number of prints but he must have his name and address on the back of each photo.

Members of the Gettysburg Photographic society will judge the exhibit and if space permits will set up a separate display of their own work.

Koch, his wife and Alice Crawford, another occupant of their car, were injured in the crash and were brought to the Warner hospital here in the York Springs ambulance. Mrs. Koch was thrown out of the car when it was spun around after being hit by the truck.

The state police report on the accident showed that Koch was driving east on the Hanover-Carlisle highway and Ergott was headed north on the Harrisburg highway. Koch failed to stop before entering the intersection, police said, and the right rear of his auto was struck by the truck.

Police are continuing their investigation. Damage to the car was placed at $1,000 and that to the truck at $500.

RED CROSS FUND PAST HALFWAY MARK IN DRIVE

More than half of the $12,742 sought by the Adams county Red Cross during the current fund drive had been secured by this morning, Richard E. Dreas, chairman of the drive, announced today. The total collected so far is $6,952.70.

He also reported that the campaign will be continued for at least two more weeks in the attempt to secure the full amount sought.

So far no more than half of all the solicitors have reported funds collected, and in some districts only a few canvassers have been able to make their rounds of door-to-door collections because of colds, the gripe and other illnesses which prevented the solicitors from carrying out their portion of the drive during the regular March campaign, Dreas said.

Upper Adams Reports

Upper Adams solicitors turned in $939.90 late Friday and noted that the collections in their area are about 50 per cent complete. Littlestown, with $677.16 turned in so far, made a similar report.

In Gettysburg, where the drive is scheduled to raise $5,096.80, the amount collected so far totals $3,220.70 and many canvassers have only half completed their territories. McSherrystown has turned in $299, which nearly completes its quota and New Chester has reported collection of $88.60.

SAYS RESULT OF U.S. OCCUPATION IN JAPAN GOOD

"Up to the present, the net results of the American occupation of Japan have been good," Dr. John Coventry Smith, representative of the Foreign Missions Board of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., told members of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church Friday evening following a covered dish family night supper at the church.

"The great majority of the Japanese people think General MacArthur has the good of the Japanese people at heart," he added, with the observation that this country may face its most difficult problem with relation to Japan when the time to end the occupation comes.

Emphasizing the great opportunity in Japan for the Christian church, Dr. Smith said: "A whole generation of people in Japan is turning toward Christianity and asking questions about it. Their old feudal system with its emperor-worship is gone and they are looking for something new. They are asking what Christianity has to offer. General MacArthur has said the Christian church faces its greatest opportunity in the last 500 years there."

Mrs. McGuire Sings

The speaker told of the restoration work done in Japan by the Presbyterian church and pointed out the necessity for going "beyond restoration" to advance an "adequate program that will offer Christianity and democracy together in a form that will meet the needs of a receptive people."

Dr. Smith was introduced by the Rev. Clyde R. Brown, pastor. Mrs. C. Ross Shuman, first vice president of the Women's Missionary society of the church, presided. There were two vocal solos by Mrs. Margaret McGuire accompanied by her husband, Philip McGuire, who is organist and choir director for the Presbyterian church.

CENSUS ARMY STARTS VAST TASK TODAY

Washington, April 1 (AP)—An army of census takers starts the vast job today of counting the people of the United States.

Even before the returns are in from the 17th—the biggest—nose-count in the nation's history, officials have a pretty good idea what it will show for the total population; about 151,000,000, plus another 4,000,000 or so in the territories and possessions.

But the 145,000 census takers are seeking other information as well, in their once-every-ten-years door-to-door quiz: Your name, address, age, sex, race, marital status, occupation, income, whether you own your own home—about 60 basic questions in all.

GOP Wrath Stirred
The farm census forms, which went out by mail about a week ago, contain some 300 questions, but a farmer will have to answer only those which apply to him.

The question about income—which will be put to one out of every five persons—has stirred considerable Republican wrath. But Census Bureau officials say similar questions have been included in the census for 100 years.

President Truman, in a census proclamation issued two weeks ago, declared that "no person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required," adding that it won't be used for such things as taxation, investigation, or law enforcement.

Strictly Confidential
By law, the answers to the questions can be used only for statistical purposes, and must be kept strictly confidential otherwise.

Census takers figure to finish their big house-to-house job in about two weeks in the cities, and in about two more in rural areas. Officials estimate the whole job will cost about $80,000,000—twice as much as it did ten years ago. The enumerators are expected to count about 1,100 persons apiece, taking about 10 minutes for each call, and traveling a total of more than 25,000,000 miles to do the job.

Things To Remember

Here are some things to remember:

1. Any responsible adult who knows the facts can answer the questions for the whole family. But no one over 14 can refuse to answer without risking up to a $500 fine and 60 days in jail.
2. Those asked for information on their income are not compelled to give it orally. They can, if they prefer, ask for a blank form and mail their answers to the Census Bureau here.
3. There are no fixed hours for the census takers to make their calls, but they'll probably start early and work late. They're paid on a piece-work basis, so the sooner they complete the count in their areas the faster they've earned their money.
4. Every government census taker carries a card with his own signature and that of a validating officer showing that he is employed by the Census Bureau as an enumerator. The purpose is to prevent impersonation and racketeering.
5. Census takers who tattle can get $1,000 fines and two years in jail.

William J. Harris Is Jail In York

William J. Harris, 45, Gettysburg, R. 4, went to jail in York Friday on the third charge brought against him since Wednesday.

Harris paid a $10 fine for disorderly conduct in York police court on Wednesday morning and immediately afterwards was accused of assault and battery. But settlement was made in the latter case and the charge was dropped.

The Adams county man, however, was unable to raise $15 to pay a fine imposed by Alderman William M. Nickey in police court Friday morning and he went to jail for 20 days on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He was arrested Thursday afternoon in King street opposite City Hall as he tried to enter a parked automobile, police reported.

Thomas N. Duenling, 55, Idaville, was sentenced to serve ten days by Alderman Nickey on charges of drunkenness and panhandling in another police court case. He was arrested Thursday evening in Philadelphia street near Queen. It was his seventh arrest.

Soldier Injured In Accident On Friday

Brocius was driving north and Kennedy was proceeding south. Brocius was passing a truck, and the right front of the Kennedy car struck the right rear of his automobile, police said. Damage to Kennedy's car was estimated at $450 and to the other car at $400.

Cpl. Leon Dull, a passenger in the Brocius car, suffered a laceration of the chin, and was treated by Dr. William E. Flickinger.

Bixbys Trying For New World Record

San Francisco, April 1 (AP)—The Bixbys—27-year-old Dianna and 36-year-old Bob—took off today at 6:03 a. m. (9:03 a. m. EST) for Newark, N. J., on their long-delayed attempt to smash the round-the-world flight record.

With a good tailwind and fair weather ahead, they expected to arrive in Newark about 4 p. m. (EST). They planned to average about 350 miles per hour plus whatever help they get from the wind.

The husband and wife team flew a twin-engine British Mosquito bomber, Huntress II, which she bought in Miami in 1949 for $4,500. They took off here because the National Aeronautical association requires a San Francisco take-off for a record world-girdling attempt.

The Bixbys are aiming at the record of 73 hours, five minutes and 11 seconds set in August, 1947, by the late Bill Odom over the 21,076 mile course. The plan calls for stops at Newark, Paris, Cairo, Karachi, Calcutta, Tokyo and Midway island with San Francisco as the terminus.

Littlestown PHOTOGRAPHY CUB'S THEME

Photography was the theme of Littlestown Cub Pack No. 48 for their monthly meeting which was held Friday evening in the fire hall. The cub master, L. Robert Crouse, discussed the subject which included an explanation on developing and enlarging pictures. He showed the cubs how to make a print from a negative.

The meeting was opened with the "salute to the flag" in charge of Den Chief Kenneth Olinger. Allen King gave the cub promise and Albert Snyder, the law of the pack. The motto was recited by the groom.

A program was presented by each den as follows: Den No. 1, Mrs. Fred King, den mother, presented a display of home-made cameras. Den No. 2, Mrs. Stanley Horner, den mother, impersonation of nursery rhymes: "Little Bo-Peep," "Aller King" and "Little Jack Horner." George Snyder, this was followed by a skit, "Making a Movie." Allen King was the cameraman; Albert Snyder and Theron Davhoff portrayed "Mutt and Jeff" and Richard Horner portrayed "Elizabeth." The den then displayed projects. Richard Horner, who attended his last meeting as a cub and will enter the Boy Scouts, displayed a broadcasting set and a crystal receiving set which he made as a hobby. On these sets, he is able to get some of the nearby stations.

Plan Eye Hunt
Den No. 3, Mrs. Robert Miller, den mother, presented shadow pictures. Wayne Miller portrayed "Jack Be Nimble" and "Little Jack Horner" and Kenneth Knight portrayed "Little Miss Muffet" and "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary." Nursery rhymes were recited by John Reynolds. Den No. 4, Mrs. E. Paul Bigelow, den mother, presented a "Tramp Act" with Robert Neater and Kenneth Hollinger, hoboes; Robert Neater portrayed a "Parish Artist." A skit, "The Gathering of the Nuts," was presented by five volunteers from the audience under the direction of Paul Bigelow.

The club will conduct an Easter Egg hunt at St. John's Lutheran church on Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock. All cubs who need transportation are requested to meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Miller, Lumber street, or Mrs. E. Paul Bigelow, East King street. The den chiefs are requested to be present for this event.

It was decided that the cubs will participate as a group in the Memorial Day parade on May 26. Three prospective cubs attended the Friday night meeting. They were Douglas Knight, Larry Bankert and Robert Basehor. "A Country Fair" will be the theme for the April pack meeting with the date to be announced later.

The Rev. David S. Kammerer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, has announced the following Holy Week and Easter program: Palm Sunday, 9:30 a. m., Church school. Lesson, "The Church Suffering and Triumphant"; 10:30 a. m., confirmation service. Sermon, "Jesus Enters Jerusalem"; Christian Endeavor, 6:30 p. m.; 7 p. m., Program by the Primary Department; Holy Week Services, 7:30 p. m.; Tuesday, "Jesus in the Garden"; Wednesday, "Jesus Betrayed"; Thursday (Preparatory Service) "Jesus Before Pilate" and Good Friday, the Lord's Supper. San Francisco, April 1 (AP)—The Bridges trial jury resumes today its deliberations on whether or not the longshore leader ever was a Communist.

The eight men and women who heard the long Federal court trial were scheduled to start their second day's consideration of the case at 9 a. m. (12 noon, EST).

Washington, April 1 (AP)—With a fresh denial of any Communist ties, Owen Lattimore returned to the United States today to reply formally to charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Lattimore is the top Soviet espionage agent in this country.

Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins university professor, landed by plane in New York as a new storm appeared brewing in the Capitol over whether a Senate committee has a right to force McCarthy to surrender documents in the case.

John Nance Garner is believed to have been the first vice president to leave the United States while the President was away from office. This occurred in 1936 when Cordell Hull acted as President until Franklin Roosevelt returned.

Parents Hold To Hope For Daughter

Bryn Mawr, Pa., April 1 (AP)—The parents of a missing Bryn Mawr college student and police officers hunting her expressed "hope" today that Gertrude Nauman might return to school when classes resume Monday.

But "hope" was all the parents and the police could go on. There were no facts on which to base the belief.

Gertrude, 19, disappeared a week ago while supposedly en route home for a 10-day vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Gilbert Nauman of Harrisburg, Pa.

She never arrived. And thus began a police hunt that has spread through several eastern states and southern states. There has been no trace of Gertrude. The only clues to her disappearance were: (1) She cashed $200 in travelers checks and (2) she bought a new coat, discarding her old one in a railroad station in Philadelphia.

Truth Or Consequences, N. M.

April 1 (AP)—It's a little long, but that's the way most of the folks here want it.

Citizens of Hot Springs voted 1,294 to 255 yesterday to toss out the old and bring in the new name.

The radio program of that name promised the town continuing publicity for the action. Yesterday's special election came after the city council and numerous other organizations had endorsed the change.

FAVOR SAILORS IN TITLE PIAA GAME TONIGHT

Philadelphia, April 1 (AP)—Homestead will pit its well-drilled defense against Swoyersville high scoring attack as the two schoolboy powers battle tonight for the PIAA Class A basketball title.

It will be the strange story of the little Class B school with the big team against the bigger school with the smaller team as the two seek
the title that carries with it the high school championship of Pennsylvania.

Nearly 8,500 are expected to jam
their way into the University of Pennsylvania's palestra here for the 31st renewal of the annual classic.
Swoyersville's Sailors, with an unbeaten skein of 29 victories this year, will be favored when the 8
p. m. whistle blows. The Sailors have scored at an average of nearly 70 points per game this season while limiting the opposition to a mere 40 points average.

Swoyersville is a mining community of nearly 10,000 in Luzerne county while Homestead is a steel mill town of nearly 20,000 in Allegheny county. The enrollment at Homestead high is about double that at Swoyersville.

While Homestead's main object
will be in stopping the lanky Sailors from scoring, Swoyersville's problems are likely to come from the Steelers' defense.

Steelers' Defense-Minded Homestead's Steelers, coached by the veteran Chick Davies, concentrate mainly on a tight man-to-man
defense with an occasional switch to the three-two zone. They've won 74 out of the past 79 games under the former Duquesne university mentor.

Davies is content to see his charges
win their games with well-timed spurts that produce close and hectic
ball games. Coach Eddie Chiampì,
on the other hand, has yet to see
his Sailors win by less than 11 points.

While Davies' main emphasis always has been on the defensive side,
this year it's a necessity. The Steelers average at least three inches shorter per man than the Sailors.

Swoyersville, led by its six-foot-
five forward, John Holup, averages six-foot-two. With that height advantage, they have had little trouble
controlling the play under the baskets.

But Homestead faced similar situations in its games with Farrell
and Westinghouse. The Steelers
beat Farrell, 37-36, and Westinghouse, 39-34. They made most of their points from far out on the floor.

Swoyersville faced a similar defense to the one the Steelers are expected to use in their eastern finals titled with Haverford. It took them
the first half to solve it and start rolling.

However, the Sailors encountered
little difficulty in such major eastern
powers this season as Hazleton,
Plymouth, Williamsport and Allentown.

Won Previous Titles
Homestead won the state championship in 1924 and 1939 while winning a forfeit victory from Allentown in 1946 when the Canaries
were suspended from the PIAA for the use of ineligible players. Swoyersville has never made the Class
A finals before.

Swoyersville's probable starting lineup includes John Holup and Joe Licata (5-4) at forwards; Joe Holup (6-4), John's sophomore brother,
at center; and Vemone Olenich (6-3)
and Joe Varaitus (6-0) at guards.
All except Joe Holup are seniors.

Homestead will probably start its leading scorer Ed Lally (6-0) and Billy Sullivan (5-9) at forwards;
Don McLane (6-2) at center; and Buddy Kuenz (5-9) and Eddie
Hood (5-11) at guards.

The winner will succeed Alliquip-
a as the state champion.

2-MINUTE RULE UP FOR DEBATE

Harrisburg, April 1 (AP)—The controversial "two-minute" rule in high school basketball games may come up for a decision today.

The rules committee of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association's board of control will report its findings in a study of the two-minute rule at a meeting in Philadelphia.

The board will meet in that city
in conjunction with the championship Class "A" basketball playoff
tomorrow night between Swoyersville and Homestead high schools.

The rule, which has aroused a storm of controversy in interscholastic basketball circles, was designed to eliminate intentional fouling in the closing minutes of a game in order to gain possession of the ball.

It stipulates that the first time
the ball becomes dead in the last two minutes of the game, the clock is stopped. All fouls then become technical fouls and the team fouled is awarded the ball out of bounds after the foul shot attempt.

The board of control took the rule
under consideration after the District 7 committee adopted a resolution favoring its elimination.

The annual shrimp catch in American waters is about 180,000,000 pounds a year.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

State College, Pa., April 1 (AP)—
For years Penn State has been known as the "home" of a basketball team that sticks to the unpopular zone defense. . . . This has produced some amusing consequences, especially when Pittsburgh's Doc Carlson comes here. . . . But Coach Elmer Gross of the Nittany
Lions has trouble understanding first, why that reputation has stuck
and what the squawk against the zone anyway. . . . "Sure, we use the zone zone," says Elmer. "Some teams
come here expecting it and they just stand still and pass the ball around. When they do that, I tell my boys to stand still, too, and play them man to man. . . . And did you notice that Bardley and Ohio State played zone defenses against CCNY. . . in the New York tournament—and lost?" . . . Not only did they use it, but other coaches in New York for their annual convention agreed that it didn't spoil the games. That used to be the squawk against this style of play. . . . City,
by the simple maneuver, of "over-
loading" the zone that one player
was guarding, managed to get men
free for plenty of shots. . . .

A MEAL OF A NOTE
The N.C.A.A. boxing tournament
here is almost overrun with doctors studying the effects of boxing and blows on the athletes. . . . And one of them had to admit recently that if the boys are punchy, so is he. . . .
"We thought we had something when
this boy was knocked out and badly
dazed," the doc explained. "We were asking him questions and when I asked 'What did you have for lunch today?' he couldn't remember
. . . I asked him again and he said: 'I don't know, but if you're so dazed, what did you have for lunch?' . . . And for the life of me,
I couldn't remember either."

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Penn State students are all het
up about the lack of a football coach
here. . . . They're getting up a 5,000
name petition asking for a big time
game and wearing cards that read:
"A big name coach for a big time school." . . . How about a couple of big tackles or fullback instead?

State College, Pa., April 1 (AP)—
Bob Higgins, retired Penn State football coach, is getting a lot of calls these days from friends who are plugging some particular candidate for the job Bob gave up a year ago. . . . And he gets more than a little pleasure out of telling them he has nothing to do with that matter.
. . . It's a rather touchy subject
at the moment, what with students
agitating for a "big name" coach,
alumni putting their oars in, assistant coaches (permanently attached to the physical education
staff) wondering what sort of jobs
they'll have, even the trustees gravely considering what they'll have to do to make the place attractive to athletes—and the good athletes remaining coldly aloof. . . . "All I can say," Higgins comments, "is that whoever gets the job will have a tough time at first. We aren't likely to have good teams for the next few years, but we can get good ones
again if we try. . . . And I think these people are sensible enough to give the new coach a little time. . . . They gave me plenty when I wasn't doing too well." . . . Then Bob adds rather wistfully: "You know, the only thing
I really disliked about coaching was the necessity of going out and competing with other schools for players."

DIS-A AND DATA

George Makris, Michigan State's
boxing coach, is the only real Spartan in that outfit, nicknamed the Spartans. George's parents came from Sparta, Greece. . . . Makris also is the only former N.C.A.A. champion coaching a team in this year's championships. . . . Look for North Carolina State college to come up with a fancy T-formation football attack about 1951. They've hired Darrell Royal, the Oklahoma quarterback, with that idea in mind, but naturally he'll start by teaching the

GRAZIANO AND JANIRO FIGHT TO STALEMATE

New York, Apr. 1 (AP)—Rocky Gra-
ziano still is the magic box office
name in boxing even though some of the dynamite may have gone out of Golden Boy's right hand bombs.

The former middleweight champion unlimbered his mighty right
time and again at handsome Tony Janairo last night but not once could
he bring down the game, comeback
kid from Youngstown, O.

At the end of ten rounds of brawl-
ing in Madison Square Garden, Rocky, a 5 to 12 favorite, had to settle for a draw with his 22-year-old rival Janairo took the first half of the fight and Rocky captured
most of the rounds in the final half.

"I couldn't get off," said the crestfallen New Yorker. "The kid takes a good punch but I never nailed him right. What I need is a couple of more fights to loosen me up."

"I thought I beat him," said Janairo, the reformed playboy who is back in the money again. "I'd like to fight him again. I'll take him for sure then. I hurt my right hand in the third round and it pained me
when I used it."

A return bout is just what Harry Markson, director of the promoting International Boxing club, would like to put on when the circus pulls
out of the Garden in May.

Draws Big Crowd
Rocky, pulling his first fighting appearance in the Garden in four years, pulled in the biggest boxing crowd (16,983 cash customers) and richest gate ($81,049 at a $10 top)
of the winter season here.

Although he didn't score a knock-down, Rocky gave his huge following plenty to yell about. He was almost floored in the first frame himself
by a neat left-right combination to the head. Once he fell to the deck
after missing a right hand swing
and another time he slipped through the ropes after missing another roundhouse right.

And twice, in mid-ring, he complained that Tony was thumping
him. Tony had a couple of beefs of his own. Rocky twice belted him
after the bell.

Rocky outweighed Janairo seven pounds—159½ to 152½—and the extra beef proved telling in the second half of the fight as he wore Tony down with thumping rights to the head and body. Several of the rights shook up Tony but the wavy-haired Ohioan, never stopped in 85 previous clashes, had enough left for a flashy spurt in the final stanza. Tony got off to a big lead in the first five rounds with dazzling left hooks followed by short rights to the head.

In the scoring, Judge Arthur Al-
dala favored Graziano, 6-3-1. Judge
Arthur Susskind voted for Janairo, 5-4-1, and Referee George Walsh had it exactly even—five rounds and ten points for each. The Associated Press scorecard had Graziano ahead,
5-4-1.

Cubs Assign Pitchers

Tucson, Ariz., April 1 (AP)—Pitchers
Don Carlsen and Don Watkins have been assigned by the Chicago Cubs
to their Springfield, Mass., club
while First Baseman Fred Richards
was sent to Nashville.

Carlsen, up from the Los Angeles
club, said that he has a sore elbow
and raised objections. The Cubs said his release will be withheld until condition of his arm can be determined.

A Man of His Word

San Antonio, Tex., April 1 (AP)—So far Hank Majeski has been a man of his word.

The Chicago White Sox, who have Majeski installed at third base, got him from the Philadelphia A's last winter in a trade for Pitcher Ed Kleiman. At the time, there was some concern that Majeski might be "plate shy" after suffering two serious beatings in three years.

"I'll knock in those runs for you,"
he promised General Manager Frank
Lane when the deal was made.

He has been stepping into the ball and belting it at a 300 clip
all spring. Hank wears a protective plastic device inside his cap—and just dares anyone to call him "plate
shy."

No Broken Bones

Phoenix, Ariz., April 1 (AP)—Outfielder Ralph Kiner took it easy
today but Pittsburgh Pirate Manager Billy Meyer heaved a sigh of relief on learning his home slug-ger's injured right wrist should respond to treatment.

Kiner hurt his wrist originally on March 14 in a base-running collision.
On Wednesday he re-injured it
when he swung at a ball in an exhibition game. However, X-rays have disclosed that no bones were broken.

Meyer doesn't know when he will use Kiner again but he's hopeful
his home run hitter will be ready for the opening game April 18.

The A's Are Unhappy

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 1 (AP)—
The Philadelphia Athletics, slated
to open their home season in Shibe Park April 21, unhappily noted that the American league schedule had them playing the Washington Senators in a night game April 20.

The players beefed. Opening day ceremonies in the Quaker City included a pre-game parade. When they demanded to know, were they going to sleep if they had to play ball the night before, rush for a train, and then get set up in a Philadelphia hotel.

Connie Mack, Jr., club treasurer,
ironed out the difficulty with a telephone call. The night game was canceled. It'll be played another afternoon either separately or as part of a doubleheader.

Phils On Jaunt

Birmingham, Ala., April 1 (AP)—
The Philadelphia Phillies began a two-week jaunt today through Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio before reaching the Quaker City and the annual city series with the rival Philadelphia Athletics.

The Phils tangle with the Southern Association's Birmingham Barons in the first of the 13 games before reaching Philadelphia April 14.

Sox On Short End

Sarasota, Fla., April 1 (AP)—Boston's Red Sox, who now have lost
one more than they have won in spring exhibitions, trek to St. Petersburg today for their fifth contest against New York's Yankees. Be-spectacular Walter Masterson, another Sox hurler who had a sore arm last summer, will start as the Sox try for the rubber victory between the two clubs. Each has won two and this is their last setto before the world champions open the American league season in Boston
against the Sox April 18.

Reds' Problem
Tampa, Fla., April 1 (AP)—The second base situation has become the
No. 1 problem for the Cincinnati
Reds.

The Red Legs had grey-haired Jimmy Bloodworth at the keystone spot yesterday as they returned to winning ways by beating the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 0, but there were reports a deal may be in the fire
with the Boston Braves.

Cincinnati figured Lou Klein, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals
in a winter deal, would be the regular second sacker but his throwing and slowness afoot have been disappointing and Manager Luke Sewell said, "Lou will have to show considerably more than he has to date to win the job."

KUTZTOWN HIGH CLASS B PIAA CAGE CHAMPION

Allentown, Pa., April 1 (AP)—Kutztown is the new PIAA Class B
basketball champion thanks to a field goal and foul conversion in the last minute of play by Ronald Weidenhammer.

The three points carried Kutz-town's Cougars to a 48-47 triumph over Irwin's Black Knights, carrying the hopes of the western part of the state.

The victory was Kutztown's 29th
and snapped Irwin's winning streak
at 42 stretching over a two-season
span.

The triumph also earned the winners a vacation trip to Florida as guests of the Kutztown Booster club.

It was the second straight year
that the Class B title event had been decided by one point. Last year
Kane beat Ashley 45-44.

Kutztown came from a 23-26 deficit at halftime to win. The Cougars held Irwin scoreless from the field in the third period and went into the final session on the front end of a 38-30 count.

Norbert Ackerman and Carl Davis,
big guns in Irwin's first half attack,
found the range again and put the westerners out in front 45-44. Cur-vaceous Stauffer's foul conversion knotted the score at 45 and set the stage for Weidenhammer's finish.
Davis reduced the margin to one point with a last second field goal.

Weidenhammer was high point
man for the new champs with 16
tallies but he was topped by Ackerman's 17.

SOUTH PENN TO OPEN APRIL 30

The South Penn Baseball league
opening will be Sunday, April 30, instead of April 23 as previously planned, it was decided at a meeting of the organization Friday evening at the American Legion home.

All of the seven member teams
were represented at the meeting which was presided over by President Dawson Miller.

An eighth team will be added in the near future. Midway is expected to be the eighth team and will notify President Miller of its decision next week.

The loop decided to start its holiday games at 9:45 a. m. instead of in the afternoon. It was voted to employ umpires of the Adams County Umpires association.

Another meeting of the circuit
will be held in the near future, the date to be announced.

in the running.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE DAWN OF A POSSIBILITY

The greatest event in any one's life is when he suddenly awakes to the consciousness that he is more than a mere entity—that he was born to be a somebody! In other words, a possibility has dawned.

Benjamin Franklin was not merely an American. He was a world figure, belonging to all mankind. The story of his life is one of the most inspiring ever recorded. Coming from a large family, and with next to no education in his youth, yet he became one of the wisest and most creative men of his time. He was a multitude of men, all in one. Every time he grasped a possibility, and made it work, he looked about him for a new one. So it was that people sought his counsel, and a nation turned to him in every emergency.

Some of us may have been born under more favorable environments than others, but equally are we born to possibilities and opportunities. So it is that the poorest rises to affluence, and the most neglected to widespread influence. Matthew Arnold once questioned:

"What shelter to grow ripe is ours?
What leisure to grow wise?"

How often it is that the merest event stirs us to some inviting possibility! We have a sudden awakening. We experience a new self. We "listen to the exhortation of the dawn" within us. We tread a new world! There are more possibilities hidden within us than we even imagine. But once the supply is tapped, a brood of possibilities appear!

There is no dawn until light appears. Likewise there can be no possibilities in the offing until there is an awakening on our part so as to be on the lookout for such possibilities. We look too many possibilities in the face and then let them pass by without recognition!

The miner, or prospector, never knows what his stake shall be until he starts to dig, and then not until he has dug long and arduously. None of us knows his potentiality. It may be richer than he knows. There may be a gold mine in but a single thought!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Step of Faith."

Mr. Wolf, Mr. Fox, I shall telephone you
Knowing well that your office is out at the zoo.

But who wouldn't phone on this day to give joy
To a twinkle-eye, trick-loving twelve-year-old boy?

By the grouches and grumps I am frequently told:
"To fall for such tricks you are getting too old."

You ought to know better. You kicked at a hat
When a blind man could tell he'd a brick under that."

I shall look when they tell me my shirt tail is out.
"Good gracious!" I'll say, "What's the laughter about?"

If instead of the sugar there's salt in my tea
I shall solemnly say: "This tastes awful to me."

When they cry April Fool, I'll pretend to be mad.
But I'll never begrudge them the fun they have had.

Let others be smart who in wisdom are schooled.
It's the one day their grandpa is glad to be fooled.

IRELAND ISSUE STIRS FUSS ON AID TO BRITAIN

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

That vote in the U. S. House of Representatives, denying Britain further aid funds so long as Ireland remains partitioned, was a tentative affair subject to expected reversion, but it has echoed like a shout in a rocky cavern.

Dublin, Belfast, London and other capitals reacted, each according to its lights. The House action was generally interpreted as political by-play but the fact remains that the effect of this surprise maneuver has been to emphasize again that the partition of the Emerald Isle is one of the burning issues of our time.

It's only ten days ago that I discussed this question of partition in our column. At that time I told you a story about a conversation I had in Belfast with the late Lord Craigavon, prime minister of northern Ireland, regarding partition. This die-hard separatist political leader slammed a finger into the palm of his other hand and exclaimed:

"Never, Never, Never"

"Union with southern Ireland? Never! Never! Never! And when I'm gone there are others who will take up the leadership after me."

A sequel to that interview has been given me by Mr. Joseph D. Brennan, counselor of the Irish legation in Washington. He says:

"In 1938 I was at the British Empire exhibition in Glasgow. At the reception given at the opening of the exhibition, Lord Craigavon was present. My then chief, Mr. John W. Dulanty, who was our high commissioner in London, was also present."

The Lady Was Right
"We had just concluded the 1938 agreement with Great Britain which restored to us the bases which the British held in Ireland. Lord Craigavon congratulated Mr. Dulanty on the occasion of the agreement and I remember him saying:

"You did fine, Mr. Dulanty, but you didn't get the north—you will never get the north."

"At that point Lady Craigavon, who also was present, broke in to say: 'Speak for yourself, James. Never is a long day.'"

"Apparently Lady Craigavon had a better appreciation of what was likely to occur in the future than her husband had at that particular time."

Lady Craigavon was right. I believe we have a right to expect that sooner or later northern Ireland and the Irish Republic will be united. The great question is "when?"

STUDENTS WILL GIRDLE GLOBE

Easton, Pa., April 1 (AP)—Higher education is zooming at Lafayette college.

A plane load of upper classmen of the eastern Pennsylvania and other schools will take off June 30 on a globe-girdling, airborne search for knowledge of what's happening in the world. Dr. Ralph C. Hutchinson, president of Lafayette, disclosed the "flying college" plans yesterday. Some 48 students will make the trip, he said, in a DC-4 which will depart from Bradley field at Windsor Locks, Conn.

The students will pay $1,542 each. They will fly across the United States to Hawaii, and fly right around the world. They will make stops at Wake Island, Japan, Hong Kong, Siam, Pakistan, Iran, Egypt, Palestine, Greece and Italy.

The airborne students will take exams in Rome, August 8, then head for home. They will listen to lectures while they are in the air, and will hear lectures by professors at universities along the way. They will confer with governmental officials, and U. S. diplomatic representatives. The tour will be worth a college credit to each student who passes his exam in Rome.

Professor J. Harold Tarbell, of Lafayette college, and Mildred Proen, of Oldwick, N. J., former state assembly woman from Hunterdon county, will direct the tour.

Buying a too elaborate car on a shoe string is one way of getting tied into a knot.

Power Source of Safety

It may seem like a stretch of the imagination to say that the gasoline you use has a lot to do with your safety a wheel, but many an inexperienced driver knows that to lack the power needed for overtaking another car may be the unanticipated factor that will result in an accident. There is a difference in gasoline, in spite of rumors that picture the stuff all coming out of the same storage tank. Some fuel is more volatile than others. There is quite a variation in anti-knock rating. One of the finest kinds of gas is a blend. Special cracking is the secret of another fuel's features. And then there is the process of increasing the natural anti-knock quality with tetra-ethyl lead. Cold motor operation of the gases also varies. A fuel that is inferior in this respect may trap you into power failure if you get into the traffic stream too soon.

This Explained It
How come that if the car pulls to the left when the brakes are applied the trade will suspect that there is a blocked brake line to the right front brake? Why wouldn't the trouble be in the line to the effected brake?

Let's figure it out. Put an obstruction in the right front brake line. What happens? Pressure just doesn't get to the right front brake pistons; and what is more significant the normal pressure to the left front brake then puts the whole front end braking out of equalization. The car pulls left. If the left line were clogged and the right line clear the pull would be to the right.

Should We Skip Gear?
It was recently suggested to a reader that where it is necessary to get into high gear quickly from a standing start it's all right to skip second gear, running up to 20 miles an hour in low before the shift. Is that wise policy, he asks.

Perhaps I can answer this best by saying that there are times when skipping second is practical with a conventional transmission but never if low speed has to be used up to a car speed of over 12 miles an hour. If the engine is powerful, well warmed up and not burdened with a heavy passenger load or an upgrade, skipping second may be practical. Some owners skip low where second gear is not a particularly high gear and where a car is definitely overpowered. By and large, however, it pays to go through all three gears.

Mechanic Joe Speaking
"I wish my customers wouldn't borrow trouble. There's plenty of the real thing around without going out of the way to find it. What prompts me to sound off on this subject is a recent visit from an owner who insisted that I take a look at the front wheel bearings in his car."

"His alarm was over their color. One was sort of bluish and another was more like straw in hue. He was sure this meant that the bearings had been overheated through insufficient lubrication. I sent him away smiling when I explained that the discoloration was due to the reaction of certain chemicals in the particular kinds of greases used for the bearings."

Why They Are Wiser
One of the reasons for spacing spark plugs points wider, a trend which is evident these days, is because of improved distributors which offer less voltage resistance. The wider gap gives longer life to the plug points and that, in turn, means more consistently good mileage. Not much is being said about this trend but a number of motors now call for gapping the plug points to between .025 and .040 inch.

The Motor Primer
How power goes around corners in an automobile certainly gives even the novice a much better idea of the function of some of the car's most intimate parts. From the moment the pistons move up and down (to give a rotational action to the crankshaft) to the pinion and rear gear (where the propeller shaft converts its movement into right angles to turn the rear axle) the power "train" is one of turning corners. Power is given a small angular turn at the universal joints, and of course at the wheels there is another conversion as they "push" the road backwards to gain forward telling. Power goes through a whole series of turns in the transmission when the car is moving in low, second or reverse. In high it goes straight through.

One for the Book
When it becomes difficult to maintain brake pedal some oddities should be considered. One is too thin brake drums. This causes brake fade since the lighter drums expand more. Too much play in the brake pedal rod is a common source of trouble, but uncommon is a condition in which the brake master cylinder is found to be loose on the frame mounting. A cracked frame mounting might also cause this.

Propose As You Go
I've waited quite a while for the news that the automobile has replaced the living room and the park as the preferred locale for marriage proposals. According to the American Institute of Marriage Relations the question now is "popped" at the wheel rather than in the more conventional locations.

Just to be consistent with my love for automobiles I proposed to Kathryn in her own convertible. It was a smart move because I got an extra car in the bargain. We really gave it glamour, however. The top was folded back, a September moon was high overhead and we were away up in the mountains. I guess it was about the only time I ever want riding in a car without having any desire to lift the hood and monkey with the timing or the carburetor.

Keep These In Mind
When removing a tire from its rim never try to remove both beads from the rim at the same time. It saves bead damage to take the strain in installments.

If tire pressures are correct for the weight of the car and the passenger load the tread should make an even imprint on a piece of clean paper.

If the spark plugs do not operate properly it may be that the valves are warped. In many engines overheated edges of valves cause pre-ignition to be their proximity to the plugs.

In The Motor Mail
Q. Does it do any harm if the lights brighten when the motor is accelerated? They are quite dim when the engine is idling? H. L. M.

A. The dimming probably indicates that the battery is weak. But it also means there is a poor connection in the system, a loose battery connector or looseness at the starter-motor post, voltage might build up so as to overload the lights temporarily. This might damage them.

Q. Several times recently when engaging the clutch for a start there was a hesitation followed by a sensation as if something let go. I'm sure this isn't imagination. Wm. B. F.

A. Of course, it's no imagination. You will find that on your car the hand brake is at the rear of the transmission, and exposed. Some grease has apparently leaked on the drum causing the shoe to bind until "broken" by the power of the motor. Better do some checking there.

Q. Why is it that the lights of my car are not white like some that I see? R. P. D.

A. The wiring may be old, you may not be using a relay, and the battery may be weak. Some of the sealed beam lamps have a whiter ray.

Q. Whenever I drive fast in second gear the engine starts to buck and miss. I also get this when driving fast uphill in high. The action suggests valve stickage but I can't see why this wouldn't show up at lower speeds. D. L., Jr.

A. It just goes to show how mystifying cars can be. This trouble means that the carburetor float level is set too low or that the fuel pump isn't up to par. At any rate it just means that the engine isn't getting enough gas.

Q. Ever hear of rush on the inside of the valve cover plate? It seems that I can gather rust there every few weeks. Wm. L.

A. This is due to sweating. It isn't serious. When there is such definite evidence that water is getting into the oil I would make it a point to drive the car on the open road and uphill as often as possible. This helps (Please Turn to Page 6)

The Ptomaine Canary

By Helen Traubel

Chapter 3

(SYNOPSIS) The Met's brightest star, Soprano Brunhilde Wagner, is an avid detective-story reader, so her manager-husband Bill Wagner, invites all the nation's top mystery story writers to hear her sing and then have supper at the Wagner apartment. Present too are Otto Furst, Met conductor, and his former wife, Lily. Brunhilde has been feuding with Otto. At the supper party, excited and gay, she treats each of her favorite writers to an enthusiastic analysis of his work.

Her next target was a woman. Brunhilde spoke in a voice that carried firm conviction. "Understand, dear, I like my stories occasionally leavened with romance, because I am myself a romantic. But why must your heroines go stumbling into dark attics and cellars just because they hear suspicious sounds? That's very silly, especially after six or seven murders have already been committed."

The author addressed managed a polite smile. Then her face reddened, for Brunhilde was quoting a passage from her last book. "Had I but known, on that fateful night as we sat around the campfire on Angler's Island what ghastly horrors were in store for all of us, especially Casper, and how it would end with Lucy's lovely throat..."

She stopped and left the rest of it hanging unspoken. "Know what I mean?" "Can you do better, Madame Wagner?"

"Yes," said Brunhilde. "As a matter of fact I already have."

She was instantly the bull's eye for a barrage of inquiry. "You mean you wrote a mystery?" demanded Elery Queen, the detective novelist and editor, sniffing out material for his magazine.

"Yes," Brunhilde was placid. "What's it about?" asked John Dickson Carr.

She shook her head. "I'm not telling."

"How many murders?" "Twelve."

"All done the same way?" "Nope. All done differently."

The assembled authors were now suffering from an acute attack of curiosity. Twelve different murder methods. It seemed impossible. Hanging, drowning, shooting, poisoning, strangling, stabbing, bashing—what else was there?

But Brunhilde was adamant. She refused to tell. Some day perhaps, they would see her story in print.

"Can you tell us the title?" She just smiled.

"Please," Agatha Christie was pleading. "All right," said Brunhilde. "It's called: 'Murder at the Met.'"

"Admirable," said John Dickson Carr.

"Excellent," said Rex Stout.

That seemed to be the consensus of opinion.

Then Agatha Christie pointed at the bird cage and said, "That is the singingest canary I ever heard. What do you feed her?"

"Italian Coloraturas."

Everyone joined into her roar of laughter. As usual, there were some moments before she had her breath back.

"And not only does the canary sing," she said, "but her repertoire contains a very unusual trick."

"Oh no," groaned Otto Furst, making a sour mouth. "Not again."

"Oh yes," Brunhilde was firm. "I want them to see how clever Galli is."

"Galli?" Erie Stanley Gardner looked puzzled.

"That's the canary's name, Galli-Curci. She doesn't have quite the same range, but she loves singing every bit as much as her namesake."

"What is this trick?" asked Elery Queen.

"You shall see," Brunhilde arose, went to a highboy, pulled open a drawer, and found a small box of birdseed. Then she went over to the cage, slid the door back, and held out a finger. The canary fluttered her wings and made a perfect three point landing. This was admired by everyone except Otto Furst and the French poodle.

With her free hand, Brunhilde extracted a seed and offered it to Galli-Curci. Taking the seed in its beak, the canary flew straight to John Dickson Carr and put it between his lips.

"Go ahead," urged Brunhilde, "swallow it. Galli-Curci is very sensitive and she'll feel hurt if you don't."

It was a small seed, and easy to swallow, and since Mr. Carr, a very gallant gentleman, had no desire to injure the little creature's sensibilities, he forced the seed down. The others, observing him closely, saw that his face registered no expression to indicate an unpalatable taste.

Thus encouraged, each accepted one of Galli's seeds.

The single major objection was filed by Otto Furst, who nevertheless fell into line, looking sour as ever. Galli placed a seed on his protruding lower lip. The instant he got it down he shot up out of his chair and repaired quickly in the direction of some plumbing facilities, presumably to indicate an unpalatable taste.

Chapter 4

At the conclusion of the performance, Brunhilde returned the canary to its cage and closed the door, fencing it in.

By now the beverage supply had become depleted, and the guests were showing signs of wear. But a mass exodus was not what Brunhilde had in mind. She preferred to convey each guest separately.

First to be escorted was Mr. Rex Stout.

"Did you notice the French poodle?" Brunhilde asked him.

He had. "Wasn't that a cute necklace?" It was.

"Her name is Zita. She belongs to a friend of ours who is away on vacation. We're taking care of her for him. He has a simply spectacular apartment on the next floor. I want you to see it."

He followed her up a flight of stairs. Brunhilde had the key ready. When she opened the door a wave of shimmering heat engulfed them. The singer nudged Mr. Stout over the threshold. All the windows were closed, the radiators turned on, and several electric heaters going full blast. The temperature was high enough to wilt a tropical cactus. Its effect upon the eminent author was instantaneous. He closed his eyes and spiraled slowly to the floor. For a moment Brunhilde inspected the horizontal figure, completely unconcerned.

Then came the detonation. Her laugh echoed and rolled around the room, the same laugh that had convulsed radio audiences from coast to coast. The seizure finally subsided, leaving her weak but happy. She sighed, went out, closed the door, and returned to her own apartment.

This identical performance was mounted and staged with only slight variations for each of the novelists. Elery Queen, Agatha Christie, Q. Patrick, John Dickson Carr, all of them wound up, three deep, dead to the world.

Alone at last with her husband, Brunhilde stretched and relaxed. It had been a wonderful evening, she said. Nothing in her manner hinted what had taken place in the apartment above.

"What a night," Bill said. "I'm tired, really bushed."

"Nevertheless, I think you ought to walk Zita before retiring."

Acting as a valet for a French poodle is a job few men relish. But since it was therapeutically unavoidable, Bill reached for his hat with resignation, got a leash on Zita, and descended to the street.

Like most dogs, Zita had considerable trouble reaching a decision. It was while he stood patiently on the pavement that Bill Wagner heard the scream and instinctively recognized its source.

Back in the apartment, many floors above him, Brunhilde, about to enter the bathroom, was greeted by a sight that congealed the blood in her veins and impaired her to the

The folks in Gettysburg and vicinity will be hearing more and more about the new wall covering called "PERMA-STONE" now being sold and applied by York Perma-Stone Company located at 212 Front Street, York, Pa. Phone 45331.

This truly modern development is revolutionary in its application to the building and remodeling industry as proven in every locality where it has been introduced.

PERMA-STONE applied on the outside walls of a house is immediately popular for many reasons. It is amazingly beautiful; it is not a tacked on siding—nor is it a slab or strip of material in the manner or style of other sidings. People recognize PERMA-STONE as a custom-built job of rare beauty and charm; so versatile in its adaptability that it can be applied to any type of building, new or old, in any number of color combinations and designs to suit individual tastes or to match the kind of stone favored for any other reason.

PERMA-STONE is cast directly on the walls through a patented process, at worthwhile savings over that of stone or brick facings on homes, apartments, stores or other buildings providing a stone-like, reinforced concrete armor from the ground up. It is entirely different than anything on the market—and there is no other medium with which exterior walls of comparable beauty and permanence can be created at anything near the cost.

Architectural tendencies favor stone facings, all of the finer attributes of which are had in PERMA-STONE. It is extremely hard, will resist abrasions; is water-proof, moisture-proof, termite-proof and fire safe.

PERMA-STONE provides perfect insulation; prevents unhealthy plaster conditions, lowers heating costs and minimizes heat plant repairs by reducing heating requirements.

floor, pop-eyed with fright.

Mr. Otto Furst, the famous conductor, lay crumpled on the white tiles, quite unmistakably dead. About that there was no doubt. It had not been an easy death and his face was twisted like a cruller.

The slight paralyzed every muscle except those which control articulation. How many decibels went into Brunhilde's scream no one will ever know. The mechanical instruments that measure sound were not at the moment available. Backed by some twenty years spent in developing her lungs, larynx, and diaphragm, and strengthened by countless Walkurie war cries it was a most awe-inspiring sound. Honest burghers as far away as Hoboken awakened in a cold sweat. The sudden and violent agitation of the seismograph at Fordham university threw two undergraduate scientists into a dither of excitement. For the first time in operatic history, a dramatic soprano hit an F above high C, turning a coloratura on Staten Island green with envy. Telephone calls began pouring into police headquarters.

Zita stopped what she was doing and the suddenly went skidding along the sidewalk as Bill plunged for the building entrance, taking off like Citation breaking the barrier at Belmont.

Despite his shattered nerves the elevator boy managed to get his car to the proper floor.

Bill found Brunhilde at the entrance to the bathroom, her eyes rigidly fixed on the corpse, her face devoid of color.

"My God!" Bill's voice was a hoarse whisper. "What happened?"

"I—I don't know," Brunhilde swallowed with considerable difficulty. "I just found him here like this. Is he dead?"

"Of course he's dead, look at him." "Well, don't just stand there. Give him an aspirin or something."

They stared at each other blankly. Bill shook his head, still dazed. His ears were still ringing. Suddenly his spine grew rigid and his face grew stiff with shock.

Brunhilde was alarmed. "What is it, Bill?"

"The others, those writer chaps." His voice was curiously strained. "Where are they?"

"They went home. Why?" His fingers gripped her shoulders. "Don't you see? It was that birdseed. He came in here right after he swallowed it."

Brunhilde blanched. Her fingers clutched frantically at his sleeve. "Oh, no, Bill. It—it couldn't be."

"Nevertheless, I think you ought to walk Zita before retiring."

EISENHOWER HAS 3-POINT DEFENSE PLAN

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Washington, April 1 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower today proposed a three-point program for stiffening the nation's defenses.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D.-Okla.), who received the written recommendations of the wartime allied commander in Europe, told a reporter they call for:

1. Strengthening Alaska and its major airfields against surprise air-attack by a permanent force of well-trained and equipped ground troops and a radar screen to detect and warn against air forays.
2. Acceleration of the 48-group first-line air force is equipped with the most modern aircraft and backed up by a powerful reserve of 12 well-equipped air National Guard groups.
3. Sufficient funds for the Navy to start a special anti-submarine force, including destroyers, small aircraft carriers, aircraft and other special equipment.

Fulfills Promise
Thomas said the letter fulfilled Eisenhower's promise to Senators to spell out changes he would make in President Truman's $14,000,000,000 defense budget for the 1951 fiscal year starting July 1.

Eisenhower, now president of Columbia university, appeared at a public session of the Senate Armed Services committee on Wednesday and mentioned these programs without putting a priority upon them.

Thomas, chairman of the appropriations group, said he will support the Eisenhower proposals, recalling that the general had estimated they would "cost from three to five hundred million dollars, part of which might be saved by trimming other items."

Five Minutes Away

Thomas noted that all of the Eisenhower proposals were prompted by concern over U. S. relations with Russia.

The general told Senators Alaska is about "five minutes" by air from Soviet territory and that Russia is known to have expanded her air force and submarine power.

But he expressed strong about that Russia plans any war in the near future, pointing out that many Soviet industries were devastated by the last war and that Russia respects the strength of the United States.

Emmitsburg

Emmitsburg—Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baumgardner have returned to their home near Emmitsburg after spending the winter in Florida.

Moon Not Herself But Weatherman Explains

Reading Pa., April 1 (AP)—It took the weatherman to reassure late homecomers around here early today that they had not enjoyed themselves too well.

Anyone wandering home about three this morning who looked at the moon, looked again, then looked for the weatherman's telephone number. For the moon was not herself at all.

She had a bright arc just above her, a second but mistier arc above that, and most disturbing of all, two brilliant balls of light at the ends of the first arc.

The weatherman said pink elephants wouldn't be next. It was

DIESELS TO SAVE W-M MILLIONS

The diesel engines that are rapidly replacing the steam locomotive on the Western Maryland railway are expected to save the railroad $1,000,000 per year, Eugene S. Williams, president of the company, told stockholders in his annual report. That additional numbers of the large diesel engines will be replacing the old "iron horses" on the route through Gettysburg is indicated by the fact that 12 additional diesel road units and eight diesel road switchers costing $3,067,000 will be delivered to the railroad within the next month, according to Williams' report. The dieselization program also calls for expenditure of $2,030,000 for additional diesel units to the road over the next few months.

The company can possibly expect a decrease in the amount of coal hauled because of the substitution of other fuels due to the increased cost of coal and uncertainty of production, Williams said. He noted, however, that "the effect of this trend is lessened by acquisition by large steel interests of important mining operations served by the company."

A favorable prospect, he added, is the anticipated movement of large volumes of iron ore through the port of Baltimore from new sources, notably Venezuela and Liberia. Western Maryland's recently enlarged pier provides a capacity for unloading from ship to cars of 15,000 tons per day.

May Offer Bill On Army Hospitals

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Rep. Shafer (R.-Mich.) said today a House armed services subcommittee may recommend legislation to keep open five military general hospitals ordered closed as an economy move. In the group is Percy Jones General hospital in Battle Creek, Mich., in Shafer's district.

The other four are the Long Beach (Calif.) Naval hospital; the Army's Oliver General hospital, Augusta, Ga.; Valley Forge General hospital at Phoenixville, Pa.; and Murphy General hospital, Waltham, Mass.

The Michigan congressman is serving on the subcommittee which has been looking into the closings. The group will inspect next week other hospitals on the list to be closed; Shafer said it would decide on its course of action after that. Armed services committee attaches said the Defense Department has shown no inclination to back down on its closing order.

Just moonlight, he explained, refracted through billions of tiny ice crystals of a cirrus cloud that happened to be over Reading.

drive off diluent in the oil.

Q. How does an anti-sway bar work? T. H. G.

A. A good question. It is hooked up to the shock absorbers on opposite sides of the car in such a way that if the car is inclined to sway that bar will tend to twist. It is resistance to such twisting that gives the anti-sway effect.

Q. My car has been in storage. Should I use fresh gasoline? G. L. H.

A. You'll probably have to drain off the old gas and put in new. If the drain at the bottom of the tank is rusted you can withdraw the fuel through the filler pipe by a siphon or by suction from the forward end of the main fuel line.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

in turn, are fed into electric sorting machines to be arranged swiftly into related sequences. Then they go into counting machines where the individual items are counted at a rate of 450 cards per minute, faster than the human eye can register and many times as rapidly as human hands could handle them. In other arrangements, or sortings, these cards are passed through electronic tabulating and calculating machines, which make computations at almost unbelievable speed and automatically produce typewritten tables of statistics.

Figures in Millions

Census bureau experts estimate that more than 400 million punch cards will be used in compiling the results of the 1950 Census. More than 2,500 card punch operators will be employed for months in punching approximately 15 billion holes in these cards. One sorting of the 400 million cards at a rate of 450 per minute will require nearly 15 thousand machines hours or the equivalent of nearly 21 months of work for one sorting machine operating continuously 24 hours a day. The many machines employed by the Census Bureau make it possible to combine the 15 billion items on these 400 million cards in the numerous sortings necessary to produce the full census report.

Washington, April 1 (AP) — Police decided to drop charges against Stanley V. Baranaukas for driving through eight stop signs. The reason:

He couldn't have seen them, since he was found guilty in traffic court yesterday of a latter offense, of driving 80 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone, and of driving on the wrong side of the street. He was offered a choice between paying a $25 fine and going to jail for 25 days, and given until April 6 to make up his mind.

FRESH ATTACKS ON FOREIGN AID BILL FORESEEN

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Washington, April 1 (AP)—A $3-102,450,000 administration foreign aid bill, passed by the House after a week of rough handling, faced fresh attacks today from both sides of Capitol Hill.

As the measure headed for the Senate in what administration leaders called "good shape," House opponents laid plans to launch a new onslaught when debate starts on a bill providing money for the various world recovery programs involved.

Administration leaders expressed the belief they could save the measure from serious damage in either chamber of Congress. It sailed through the House last night on a 287 to 86 vote, after a week of battering by Republicans and Southern Democrats.

Irish Angle Out
While its total was $270,000,000 less than the State department wanted, the bill was stripped at the last moment of two administration-opposed amendments. One would have tied up $1,000,000,000 of the total for the purchase of farm commodities in this country; the other would have halted aid to Britain while Ireland remained partitioned.

In addition, the measure contained the controversial "point four" program intended to help backward friendly nations get on their feet through technical assistance from the United States. However, the program was cut almost in half. The overall purpose of the bill, which continues the Marshall plan, is to provide economic aid to nations resisting Communism and to hike their standards of living so their citizens won't succumb to Communist propaganda.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee has approved a companion measure without the point four provision but otherwise almost the same as the House version.

The Senate committee has called on the administration for more information on point four, but House leaders said they are sure the Senate will include the project in the bill.

Regardless of what the Senate does, the House will get another crack at the entire measure after its Easter recess starting next Friday. It will have a chance then to reduce the appropriations needed for the programs authorized by yesterday's bill.
